All people and places are real. You'll know it's a story when the characters aren't real. Not a ghost story, just fun. Some may be a little scary, I don't know. Children love this book. This is my favorite book. 2 I was a ghost long before I became a ghost. My mother died in the big house. Maybe I am her. I'm gonna be honest, I do hate the real McCoy. It's mostly for bullies, that's why my name is Solem. 3 Here's how it happened. I was playing in the garden one day. My mother used to let me play when she was alive. She wanted me to grow up strong and healthy. I was working away at the soil when I heard a noise. It was a cough, and then a sneeze. I realized it was someone. I looked up and saw a man and a woman. They were walking around the castle looking for something. I was nervous, I didn't want them to see me. I hid behind a bush. Then I heard a loud crash. I got scared and hid behind the bush again. The crash came from the door. The two of them walked through it. I watched as the man picked up a bone and put it in his pocket. He turned and looked at me. His eyes were big and scary. I was a little scared. He must have seen my nervousness because he smiled at me. The woman said something, I didn't understand. They laughed and left. The man never came back. The next day I went out in the garden again. I was wearing my favorite red dress. I had already left my playhouse in the garden. I was working on the dirt again when I heard the door slam. The man was back. He went up the path that led to the steps of the house and pulled out a bunch of keys. He unlocked the door. He pulled the door open, went inside and left the door open. I peeked out and saw the door slowly close. The woman wasn't with him. I couldn't see her. I'm pretty sure she's still there. Maybe I'll go back and see her one day. I can't wait. The man walked down the hall. He turned and looked at me again. I smiled and nodded my head. He went into a room and locked the door. I've never been inside it. He has a friend there, someone I don't know 82157476af
